Welcome to NYC Recovery

New Yorkers living and working in communities affected by Hurricane Sandy face many challenges as they rebuild their homes, restore their businesses and get their lives back to normal. This site provides access to information on the City's efforts to help New Yorkers recover from the devastating effects of the storm.

Note: The information, policies and flyers on this website are currently undergoing revision to match with the program updates outlined in the "One City, Rebuilding Together" report.

Mayor de Blasio announced on Thursday, April 17th the release of a comprehensive diagnostic report on the city's response to Hurricane Sandy, including an extensive set of recommendations to provide financial relief to homeowners and businesses and engage
